“Leading the Surge: The View From Sadr City”

Col. Don Farris

Col. Farris recently returned from a 15-month deployment where he commanded the first brigade inserted into Baghdad under the surge initiative. This event was co-sponsored with the KU -Fort Leavenworth Program
May 7, 2008

In September, 2007, the University of Kansas announced a new initiative linking KU and the Army’s premier educational center, the Command and General Staff College and other organizations at Fort Leavenworth. The goal, stated KU Chancellor Robert Hemenway, is to help educate the next generation of Army officers through advanced-degree programs aimed at faculty and students at the CGSC. David Lambertson, a former ambassador to Thailand, directs the KU-Fort Leavenworth Program.
